Syahdan Z. Aziz joined SSEK in 2005. His areas of practice include oil and gas law, energy and natural resources, project finance and infrastructure, foreign capital investment, mergers and acquisitions, and general corporate matters.

Syahdan received his Bachelor of Laws in economic law from the University of Indonesia in 2005. He earned his Master of Laws in 2009 after completing a one-year program in International Economic and Business Law at the University of Groningen in the Netherlands.

Syahdan's recent projects include advising an Indonesian state-owned oil and natural gas company on the acquisition of a petrochemical company and acting for a Japanese petroleum company on fuel sale and storage agreements. Syahdan advised a French civil engineering company and a Chinese engineering and construction company on projects in Indonesia, and acted for a multinational drilling rig operator in a potential cooperation in Indonesia.

Syahdan is a licensed attorney and a member of the Indonesian Advocates Association (Peradi).
